On A Clear Day: Issue 709, 16 May 2019

NBI IN THE NEWS/NBI NEWS

NBI AND THE SDGS UPDATE The NBI in collaboration with the Confederation of Danish Industry (DI) are running a new Sustainable Development Goals project with the Agri-processing sector in South Africa. The project kicked off in Cape Town at the end of April with the much-anticipated SDGs bootcamp. Participants were provided with an introduction to the SDGs and their relevance to business and to the Agri-processing sector. The need for this sector to enhance and ensure its sustainability in the face of climate change was highlighted as well as other sector trends; and the level of ambition set that we'd like to achieve at both sector and company level. Look out for NBI's Quick Brief which will be published tomorrow.

ALEX MCNAMARA, NBI'S CLIMATE & WATER PROGRAMME MANAGER today participated in a panel discussion at African Utility Week in Cape Town on: The role of financial institutions towards water project financing which discussed leveraging private finance and promoting the use of PPP's, as well as adjusting revenue models. African Utility Week which is held annually over 3 days, is the leading conference for professionals representing Africa's entire power, energy and water value chain. Kindly contact Alex McNamara for further details.

NBI LAUNCHES FINDINGS ON WATER INVESTMENT IN SOUTH AFRICA The NBI launched the findings of its Kopano ya Metsi project at African Utility Week in Cape Town on Tuesday and will be doing the same at The Venue, Sandton on 6 June 2019. Over 18 months, Kopano ya Metsi has engaged with hundreds of experts to understand how national water investment can be unlocked, what role Public Private Partnerships can play in closing the water sector funding gap, and how we can strengthen municipal water management. Kopano ya Metsi ('meeting for water' in Sesotho) speaks directly to the need to investigate alternative delivery models and ways to improve the sector's financial viability, as outlined in the national water and sanitation master plan.
