

THE NATIONAL BUSINESS INITIATIVE PRESENTS THE
ANTI-CORRUPTION AND ETHICS COURSE
BUILDING ETHICAL LEADERSHIP TO COMBAT CORRUPTION

Addressing the current and fast-growing culture of unethical behaviour and corrupt activities within the private and public sectors

BACKGROUND

The National Business Initiative's (NBI) Ethical Leadership and Anti-Corruption (ELAC) Programme was established as a direct response to the 2018 Job Summit Agreement Framework and a recognition of the need to address corrupt and unethical practices and behaviours in the private sector. The programme recognises the need to critically change the dialogue on corruption by activating leadership and empowering ordinary South African employees to make the right choices.

Our ELAC training aims to address the organisational and behavioural aspects of driving ethics and anti-corruption. Over the past few years, we have learnt that despite organisations and companies putting in place compliance-driven systems and processes, unethical behaviour persists. Thus, business must be intentional about improving the quality of their ethical fitness programme and the secret ingredient lays with social behaviour. This course is the start to improving and embedding accountability within the private sector.

Course Info

Online
Open Source
Case Study Based
40-60 Minutes to complete

The module captures three main themes:

Ethical Leadership
Organisational Culture
Behavioural Awareness

More Course Info

Ethical Leadership
Organisational Culture
Behavioural Awareness

WHISTLEBLOWER CYNTHIA STIMPEL AND SOUTH AFRICAN AIRWAYS CASE STUDY

Creating awareness on what whistleblowing is
A deep dive into the hardship's whistleblowers endure
Responses to whistleblowers
Protecting whistleblowers

The ELAC Training seeks to expand opportunities for knowledge and best practice for organisations to better understand and establish an awareness base on anti-corruption and unethical behaviour in the workplace, whilst also aiming to provide recognisable certification for participation.

The NBI believes in collective action and collaboration to effect change; building a South African society and economy that is inclusive, resilient, sustainable, and based on trust.

FOR MORE INFO

www.nbi.org.za

THIS PROGRAMME SUPPORTS:

REPUBLIC OF SOUTH AFRICA

